

HOLT TRIES TO END LIFE IN HIS CELL

ORGAN'S ASSAULT ATTEMPTS SUICIDE BY USING LEAD PENCIL TO SEVER ARTERY.

VERGES ON COLLAPSE

Mental and Physical Condition is Described As Most Serious—Is Cheered by Telegram From Wife.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Glen Cove, N. Y., July 6.—Frank Holt, J. P. Morgan's assailant, who has also confessed to setting the bomb that exploded in the capitol last Friday night, attempted to kill himself at midnight by trying to open the artery in his left wrist with a lead pencil. The attempt was unsuccessful.

While lying on his side in a cell in the Nassau county jail at Mineola, he was seen by an attendant to writhe with pain. The attendant entered the cell, found the blood flowing from the wound, summoned the warden and bound up the wrist, checking the flow of blood. Notwithstanding the promptness with which Holt's attempt was discovered, he lost a considerable quantity of blood.

Spent Restless Night.
Holt spent a restless night, tossing about on his cot from which he had been unable to rise during the day and uttering to himself at intervals, his keepers had taken from him his belt suspenders and every other article in his possession with which they thought he could have attempted suicide. He seemed to be so despondent during the day that a strict watch had been kept upon him.

After several hours had passed without sleep during the early night, Holt called to an attendant and asked for a pen. He said he wanted to write to his wife. A pencil was brought to him and a few moments later he had written a letter. The attendant remained in the cell a few minutes and Holt, turning on his left side, apparently started to write.

The attendant then left. Within five minutes he passed the cell again. He then noticed Holt seemed to be in pain, and, entering the cell, found blood flowing from a wound in his wrist. Holt was lying on his back, his head on the pillow, and his hands clasped over his chest. The blood was flowing from a wound in his left wrist, and he was holding a lead pencil in his right hand.

Apparently Holt had not reached the artery. He had cut a vein, however, and the blood was flowing. The warden's questions as to why he had attempted to kill himself Holt refused to reply.

Wife's Telegram Cheers.
Holt was cheered somewhat today by the receipt of a telegram from his wife at Dallas. It read: "With love and waiting, you must do the same. Send loving greetings hourly. Beautiful tribute to you in both even. The papers here are all tarrying for news of you. Do not be afraid. Rest. Signed Leone."

ter, although for years I believed the latter dead. The suggestion came to me when I was reading Holt's statement, "that sounds like Muentner, I thought."

Ottmar M. Krembs, a brother of Muentner's wife, after whose death at Cambridge Muentner is said to have disappeared said today he would go east to assist in clearing up Holt's identity. He has a number of photographs of Muentner, some of them without the beard, and he declares that the likeness between the smoothened pictures of Muentner and those of Holt were striking.

Glencove Scar as Described.
Glencove, July 6.—The evidence that has been accumulating to support the theory that Holt and Muentner are the same person was strengthened by the announcement today that an examination of Holt's body had revealed scars which correspond to a description received by the authorities here today of scars which Muentner bore on his body. The scars in Muentner's case were said to have been due to operation.

Allegations Have Been Asked to Come Here to Meet.
Holt's mental condition to determine whether he is sane.

Certain He Is Muentner.

Youngstown, O., July 6.—Rev. F. M. Bennett, pastor of the First Unitarian church, today declared that Frank Holt, assailant of J. P. Morgan, was known to him as Prof. Erich Muentner. Holt is now in the Matteawan asylum.

Anxious to Tell Story.
Holt has declared that when he is arraigned on Wednesday he will tell the story of his life, particularly his recent movements leading up to the placing of the bomb in the United States capitol at Washington and his attempt to assassinate Mr. Morgan. He will also reveal the place where he bought the dynamite found on him. Holt made these declarations to Dr. Guy Cleghorn, the jail physician, adding that he was anxious to tell his story in open court.

Holt has retained a lawyer, Thomas J. Reidy, who was instructed by Holt to appear for him at the examination to be conducted by Justice of the Peace William E. Lyster in the court house at Glen Cove, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mr. Reidy said that he had been asked in the first instance by friends of Holt in Ireland and by members of the faculty of Cornell university to do what he could for the former teacher of German at Cornell. Mr. Reidy had known Holt in Ireland.

The first thing the lawyer did after getting Holt's permission to represent him, was to instruct the warden not to permit detectives from New York City to question Holt in his cell. Reidy said that the New York police had no right to question the man. The warden promised to bar them from the cell, and Detective Victor Coy of the New York detective bureau, who was to question Holt, was refused admission.

Talks With Attorney.
"I had a long talk with Holt," Mr. Reidy said. "He is physically weakened and mentally unbalanced. My opinion is that he is temporarily deranged from too much study and from brooding over the European war. It is probable that I shall urge that in his defense at the examination Wednesday afternoon."

"I am sure that he is what he represents himself to be," he told me that he is not the Erich Muentner who is wanted by the Boston police for murder, and that he was in Germany at the time Muentner is said to have murdered his wife. He tells me also that he was never in Cambridge or at Harvard university. These matters will work themselves out naturally in due time. At present, however, it is absolutely necessary that Holt should not be harassed by ceaseless questioning. He was badly hurt on Saturday, and he is now greatly depressed."

ARMY OFFICERS ACT AS INSTRUCTORS TO STUDENTS
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, July 6.—Instruction of young men in army summer instruction camps was begun today at Plattsburgh Barracks, N. Y., and at the camp at Ludington, Mich., and at Chickamauga, Ga. Students between 18 and 30 are received, charged a nominal fee for clothes and subsistence, amounting to about $40 for a five weeks' course, and vacation under tutelage of army officers.

New photograph of J. P. Morgan; posed photograph of Frank Holt in custody; Deputy Sheriff Theodore Campbell and Frank Holt after latter had been taken in custody.

Here are the principal figures in the near-tragedy at Glen Cove, N. Y., last Saturday. The photos of Holt were taken after he had attempted to kill J. P. Morgan, head of the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., hoping that he might thereby end the European war. Holt who is now in jail, is a native American of German extraction. He is a former student and instructor at Cornell University, and was to have become the head of the department of French in the Southwestern Methodist University at Dallas, Texas, next fall.

Civics Committee of Commercial Club Reports Unfavorably on Proposal to Start Society.

An adverse report was made by the civics committee of the Commercial club on the advisability of recommending that the Volunteers of America open a department for their work here, dependent upon the donations of the citizens for its upkeep. The committee argued that the field which the organization fills was well covered here and therefore no great need for it at the present time, especially in view of the fact that about $2,000 would be needed to defray expenses annually, which must come from the citizens.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL DONS MAN'S ATTIRE

Montfort Young Lady Who Obtained Man's Haircut and Male Clothes Here Arrested in Milwaukee.

Dorothy McCoy, a pretty little girl of 20 years, who shocked barbers at the Leary establishment last Thursday by ordering her beautiful tresses cut short like a man's, came to grief in Milwaukee Friday night, when arrested while waiting to board a train at the railway station. The young lady who had ambitions to be a boy, was graduated from the high school at Montfort, Wisconsin, but ten days ago, and it is said she disliked the attentions the young men paid to her, as she was pretty and popular in her home town.

"I got tired of being a girl," said Dorothy to the Milwaukee police Saturday. "Last Thursday I left for Janesville and there purchased a complete outfit of men's clothing. Then I had my hair trimmed man fashion, and will admit the barber was scandalized and it kept me busy selling 'abs' to account for my behavior. Janesville I put on the clothes and went to Chicago, and then to Milwaukee. I was afraid some one would recognize me, so I decided to go back to Chicago. While at the depot a detective questioned me and in spite of my protests that I was a sure-enough boy he carted me off to the station."

SENATE OBSTRUCTS ECONOMY PROGRAM

PREVENTS PHILIPPS' ADMINISTRATION FROM FULFILLING ITS ELECTION PLEDGES.

LEGISLATION HELD UP

Ultras In Control of Upper House Expect All Their Efforts to Balk Governor's Reform Measures.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., July 6.—With thirty-two men rests the question of whether the state of Wisconsin will save in the next two years approximately $1,000,000—that is the situation as it is today in the Wisconsin legislature.

These thirty-two men are the members of the senate, the absentee member being Senator Scott, who is in a local hospital. And these are the men who will have to answer to the people if the saving is not effected because it is the general belief here that the governor has done and is doing all that can be kept his pledge of lower taxes and business administration. It will not be his fault if the proposed consolidation bills do not pass and it is through these bills that the saving will be only allowed. At some of the committee hearings on these measures the question has been asked: "How will this sum be saved?"

The answer to that is found in the budget necessary for the passage of the bills. It is pointed out that under the consolidation plan only so much money is asked for. This total is approximately $500,000 a year less than the different departments are asking for under the present system. Consequently it is argued that if these departments under the consolidation plan are only allowed so much and that figure is approximately $500,000 less than under the present system, there will necessarily have to be a saving in the departments in their consolidated form are not given the money they cannot spend it and that is what is proposed. In this connection it is interesting to note that an election argument has been made here through the columns of the ultra press. It is said that if the governor's program is not put through it will not be passed because he lacks the backing of the legislature and the point is made that if all the administration measures do not go through it will mean that they were not passed by the legislature and that is friendly to the governor. There is so little truth in this argument that it is on a par with many similar statements that have found their origin in the camp of the ultras. An answer to this argument was given by an administration official.

"In the first place it is not true that the legislature has been wholly in sympathy with the governor," he said. "Such a statement would apply only to the assembly. This body has seen fit to live up to the platform pledges on which a majority of the members were elected. It is a result every single one of the administration bills with the possible exception of a tax commission reorganization has been passed. In other words, things are different. Half of the senators are hold-over officials and it can be said without exaggeration that when the governor went into office he found the ultras were there with him and his plans. The ultras knew this and they have reserved all their efforts for the higher body. And today we find every senator who is not an out-and-out administration man besieged from all sides by ultras and ultra lobbies to save the state from the disgrace of an economical administration of state affairs. They don't want the governor to effect any economies because if this happened the voters of the state might get the impression that he is making good and it is this that the ultras want to prevent. It is most apparent that if the governor does succeed in his plans it will have an appreciable effect on the coming senatorial election, when a successor to Robert M. La Follette will be chosen. If the ultras succeed in their tactics of obstruction, it will only be because of the senate."

SLAVS READY FOR DEFENSE OF WARSAW

OPTIMISTIC PREDICTIONS MADE AT PETROGRAD REGARDING ABILITY TO HOLD CITY.

BATTLE IN PROGRESS

Fighting of Desperate Character in Now Raging Between Vistula and Bug Rivers, Says London Report.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, July 6.—Special correspondents in Petrograd telegraphed optimistic predictions concerning a coming Russian campaign for the defense of Warsaw which forms the defense of a vast circle of one hundred miles of strong fortifications. Even the all of the fortress of Ivangorod, according to these correspondents, would not mean the loss of the Poland capital.

Fierce Battle Raging.
Fighting described as desperate in the official Petrograd reports, is raging between the Vistula and Bug rivers, along the base of a triangle of which Warsaw forms the apex. The country there is marshy and it is predicted in London that this campaign will be a constant drain on German resources and an ever-victorious will be almost as costly as defeat.

The German thrust against the French positions to the west of the Mosel river apparently has not extended beyond the infantry attack which regained the trenches previously lost by the Germans, but preparations probably are under way for a further advance, as Paris reports a violent bombardment by this region.

REPORTS TREASURY

IN GOOD CONDITION

Balance in County Funds on July 1st is $192,345. Practically the same as a Year Ago.

There is a substantial balance in the county treasury according to the semi-annual report of County Treasurer Livermore. The report shows the amount on hand on July 1st at $192,345.47, practically the same as the balance of a year ago when the figures were $192,517.48. The total receipts for the last half year were $435,275.72 and the amount on hand January 1st was $97,500.95. The total expenditures for the six months were $204,836.20, the largest amount in any one month being in February, on account of the payment of the state taxes, when the outgo amounted to $175,330.28. In 1916 the state taxes will be paid in March as the result of a change in the law made at the present session of the legislature. Rock county has received from the twelve depository banks in interest during the last half year $2, 434.96, as compared with $320.03 for the same period a year ago, an increase of $2,114.93, due to the higher rate of interest.

BUT THREE WERE ARRESTED
BY POLICE SINCE SATURDAY

Janesville spent a very dry celebration. This is proved by the fact that there were but three arrested on the charge of drunkenness, one of whom is a boy eighteen years of age. The two men were released this morning, as their "springs" were not serious enough to demand court prosecution. One of them was subject to a family lecture by the chief, in which the relatives of the man were called into conference to effect a prohibition reform of the victim.

The eighteen year old boy was found in a drunken slumber in a front yard Sunday. Chief Champion would not give out his name or address this morning, waiting until he had opportunity of investigating the case thoroughly to learn where the minor obtained the liquor. When first questioned the lad told he found the liquor
and became intoxicated on the river,
but this is not believed.

TAKES A BAD SPILL ON PRACTICE SPIN

RACING CAR DRIVEN BY ROCK-FORD MAN SOMERSAULTS
FROM TRACK MONDAY
MORNING.

DRIVER WILL RECOVER

Condition Considered Critical Until
Ex-Ray Examination Revealed
No Very Serious Complications.

Arthur Bergstrom of Rockford, Ill., one of the drivers entered in the 100-mile automobile race at the Park association track, was unconscious for hours on Monday as the result of injuries sustained yesterday morning
when his car catapulted from the track at the upper turn and turned completely over twice before it threw him from his seat. He was rushed at once to the hospital and when he failed to recover consciousness his condition was considered critical. Dr.
Wayne A. Munn finally made an X-ray examination which revealed that there might be a fracture of a bone
in the pelvis, which examination revealed that there were no complications, the bruises and injuries being internal. Dr. Munn stated this morning that he anticipated a speedy recovery.

How Bergstrom escaped instant death is considered nothing short of a mystery. The Rockford man, driving a Marmon racer, about 2 1/2 years old, was practicing in the morning. His brother or was acting as his mechanic and after trying a few slow laps, Bergstrom let his brother out at the grandstand to time the result of the next lap. The driver paced slowly around the stretch aiming to obtain a flying start for the timing lap. On approaching the east turn Bergstrom was not going over twenty miles an hour and no attention was paid to him by the spectators and other drivers on the track. Bergstrom was found, prostrate in the ditch, on the morning of the next lap.

Bergstrom made the first half of the turn safely and was turning his machine onto the back stretch while "hugging the inside of the track. The car suddenly skidded into the inside of the ditch, the driver turning his wheel sharply to escape striking one of the grandstands. As he was turning the machine skidded into the bank and in an instant plunged over the bank and down the sharp drop of the hill. Bergstrom was thrown twice before Bergstrom was thrown from his seat. He was thrown loose from behind the wheel and the machine rolled over the third time. How he escaped having his chest crushed during the somersaults is unexplained.
When the car failed to appear on the back stretch in the expected time, Bergstrom's brother and other rushed to the turn in autos and found the wrecked machine upside down in the bushes. Twenty feet from the track, Bergstrom was found, prostrate in the ditch.

He was taken to the hospital in the automobile of John C. Nichols and medical attention failed to revive him. His parents were notified and the father reached the hospital at one o'clock. He remained at the hospital until Bergstrom was pronounced out of danger.

Another x-ray photograph will be necessary before the extent of injuries will be known. Bergstrom was resting easily despite great pain this morning and unless the injury received in the abdomen is more serious than anticipated, no fears are held for his recovery.

The car driven by Bergstrom was badly wrecked, one wheel being ripped loose from the frame, the radio
tor bent, and both tanks tipped off the back. It was transported to a down-town garage.

Almost at the same spot where Bergstrom was injured, Charles Eckert of this city was pitched from his motorcycle Sunday morning in an attempt to make the "death turn" with his machine going full speed. Eckert was clipping off the laps at 1:00 and on the lap in which the accident happened was attempting to make the mile in a minute flat. At the turn he failed to shut off speed and the track bent was leaning on the machine as far as possible without tipping. The pedal of the motorcycle struck the track during the maneuver and the machine tipped over the chine to the ground and threw Eckert over the bank. His arm was severely bruised and he was unconscious when taken by William Cushing to a physician's office. He was at the track Monday and repeated the fact that he was not able to ride. Roy

JANESVILLE PASTORS LEAD IN MARRIAGES

Williams and Hazen Top List for Twelve Months' Period—Births
in County Exceed Deaths
by 380.

Janesville ministers are by far the more popular of any community in the county when it comes to marriages according to the annual report
of vital statistics for the county, which is now on file at the office of County Treasurer Livermore. To Reverend C. D. Williams of the Carroll Methodist church goes the title of the "marring parson" for the twelve months ending June 1, 1915.
Sixteen ceremonies being checked to his credit. Rev. Joseph C. Hazen of the Baptist church is a close second with 14; then comes Reverend W. A.
Gosbell of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church with 13. Next is Reverend W.
E. Leek of the Beloit Methodist church with 12; Reverend William Mahoney of St. Patrick's church has 11; Father
A. Giovannoni, the Italian priest at Beloit, has 10; and Reverend S. W.
Fuchs of St. John's German Lutheran church and Reverend C. E. Coon of Evansville, each have 10. The total number of marriages in the county was 247, of which Beloit had 110 to Janesville's 115. There were 18 marriages at Evansville and 20 at Edgerton.

Births in Rock county for the year ending June 1st, exceeded the deaths
by 347, according to the statistics.
The total births were 1,201. Beloit's share being 428, Janesville's 380.
There were 33 births in Evansville and 55 in Edgerton. The total deaths for the county were 854, with 280 in Beloit and 215 in Janesville. The total amount paid to local registrators for reporting births, deaths, marriages and accidents was $802.40, and the amount paid to physicians for reports on births, deaths and accidents was $48.75.

POLICE FIND SMALL EVIDENCE IN RAID

Search Hotel Conducted By Mrs. Mary McCarthy on Wall Street Sunday Morning.

Sunday morning two patrolmen,
Harry Smith and Jay Hymer, watched
a suspicious number of Sunday morning patrons enter the cafe of the Schultz Hotel at 523 Wall street, and then the two marched into the place with a search warrant. The two officers searched high and low for the cause of a case and a half of beer and a bottle of whisky. The place is conducted by Mrs. Mary Mc-Carthy and the police department on watching the brewery wagons stopping at such regular intervals, had the turne spotted under the term of
"blind pig," against which Chief Champion has waged a bitter campaign.
The liquor was brought to the city hall and locked in the cell. After a conference with City Attorney W. H.
Dougherty no warrant was issued for the arrest of Mrs. McCarthy, it being probable that the officials believed they had insufficient evidence to bring a conviction, there being no one in the place but those connected with the hotel when the police arrived. The warrant was returned to the court this morning. The document charged that liquor was being sold without a license.

of the machine was reported to be Mathew Dedrick, a farmer residing back of his head.

The car careened off the road bank, throwing all but Dedrick clear of the falling machine. One of the women sustained minor bruises. A telephone message to this city brought aid to convey the party to this city late last evening. Dedrick was taken to a phy-

could not be learned. The machine escaped heavy damage, only the wind-

Monday's Market.
Chicago, July 6.—The expected happened in yesterday's cattle market.
The best beefs sold up to $10.20, or 25c above last week's top and 45c
higher than a week ago.
Besides being highest July top on record the day's average price of $9.50 equaled the record average made the second week of last August.
Demand for fat cattle was general,
with export orders adding tone to the trade. Morris & Co. paid $10.20 for 1,500 lb. steers, standing nearly $3
higher than low time in February.
There was some upward reaction in the hog market yesterday. Armour's drove costing $7.35, against $7.31 Saturday. Best lambs sold at $10, last week's closing price.

Hog Average Higher.
Average price of hogs at Chicago
was $7.45, against $7.45 Saturday, $7.53 a week ago, $8.42 a year ago,
$9.02 two years ago and $7.47 three years ago.

Cattle Receipts Large.
There was a big holiday run of cattle. Receipts were 16,000, being 3,000 more than expected. After a slow start general market closed, 10@15c higher. The bulk of beef steers was around $9.50, with twenty loads above $10 mark. Calves closed 25c lower.

Quotations:
Choice to fancy steers... $9.30@10.20
Poor to good steers... 7.40@9.25
Yearlings, fair to fancy... 8.40@10.00

Canning cows and heifers... 6.00@6.50
Native bulls and stags... 5.80@6.30
Poor to fancy veal calves... 7.00@10.25

Hog Run Smaller.
With 19,000 fewer hogs yesterday
than previous Monday, part of Saturday's decline was regained. Yet the top at $7.80 was 2 1/2c below high point early Saturday. Packing grades gained 10@15c. Pigs sold at 6@25c higher. Quality fairly good. Quotations:

ANNOUNCEMENT!
A GREAT FREE DEMONSTRATION OF
SCHOLL'S FOOT COMFORT SERVICE Wed & Thurs

Consult the Chicago Foot Specialist FREE

On these two days Free examination and advice will be given by an expert under the direction of Dr. Wm. M. Scholl, the famous foot specialist. He will also give demonstration of foot appliances necessary in the correction of foot troubles. This important event was arranged at great expense principally for you who have weak, tired, aching, calloused feet, for you who suffer from bunion pains and corns, or who have broken down arches, crooked toes, and hammer toes, for you who have tried fruitlessly to get relief. Not obliged to buy shoes here.
If you have flat foot, weak feet or broken down arches, no matter if you are already wearing arch supports, have your feet scientifically examined by this specialist and let him advise you what to do. If you have been using bunion and corn remedies that furnish temporary relief without correcting the cause be sure to get this scientific advice.
If you are one of the many thousands who have always had trouble in being properly fitted to shapely footgear come to our store. The difficulty will be solved easily and simply and perfect foot comfort will be given you.

WARNING: You may not realize it but those slight aches at the heels and ankles, those painful cramped toes, that body weariness and brain fog are typical of weak arches and likely to result in a serious derangement of the whole nervous system. Many people have mistaken these pains for rheumatism of the feet and have tried internal remedies to correct them when all they really needed was proper support of the feet arches.

Reason for This Demonstration

It has been our ever constant aim to make this the most progressive shoe store in town.
For months we have thoroughly investigated the efficiency of the service rendered users of Dr. Scholl's Foot Specialties and wearers of his appliances. We have seen people who previously walked with great difficulty now able to stand the most rigorous exercising of the feet, enduring long walks and long standing without the slightest annoyance. We have found every one of Dr. Scholl's corrective devices anatomically correct and scientifically perfect. To give our patrons and friends the fullest benefit of the Scholl Foot Comfort Service we have arranged this demonstration and will henceforth conduct in our store an orthopedic department for continued service of this character. We are headquarters for Scholl's Foot Comfort Specialties and Appliances.

There's a Scholl Appliance for Every Foot Ailment or Deformity

Whatever your foot trouble may be, there is a Scholl appliance or device which will correct permanently the trouble from which you are suffering. Consult this noted specialist and let him advise you about your trouble.

HUNDRED MILE AUTO RACE PROVES TO BE A TOURING "JOY-RIDE"

A. G. Parcell of Elgin Wins Race Yesterday at Rate Below Fifty Miles Per Hour—Albany Rider Wins Motorcycle Race.

Running the hundred miles without a stop, A. G. Parcell won the first century mark speed contest ever staged at the Association Park track Monday afternoon, in a race that was devoid of sensational speed and interesting only through the suspense that followed each lap that accidents were likely to result. Parcell, who is from Elgin, Illinois, made the hundred laps over the mile track in two hours, nine minutes and thirty-two and half seconds. Fred Herman of Chicago, formerly of this city, won second place in the last lap, when he beat Benius by a fast burst of speed. The other two drivers were simply "rambling" around the track at a pace that "Pete" Dink in his belated "Foolish Fogy" would have been ashamed of. There were about fifteen hundred people assembled in and around the track that spent a truly "sane" celebration of the Fourth and managed to wipe dust enough off their eyes to see the "sane" rambling down the stretch. The dust rolled up in the big grandstand in immense clouds and attempts to breathe one's throat from the grit with soda pop resulted in a sickly combination. Parcell was mounted in a freakish white Buick car that was built for business. The machine had plenty of speed but Parcell, like all the other pilots, had an earnest respect for the "death turn" at the east end, slowing up to thirty miles per hour to make the curve and then lacking power enough to pick up speed on the straight ways to make inevitable time. After the first twenty-five miles the dangerous curve was rooted deep by the skidding and every one of the drivers must have had a rabbit's foot in escaping the treacherous bank when they straightened their cars out for the final twist. Herman came around the turn with throttle open and he twisted across the track nearly tottering into the fence. Again the former Janesville man attempted to pass Sharp, driver of the Jackson car, and his front wheel touched the hind wheel of the car ahead. The result was that the wire wheel of the Buick car was thrown off and Herman by a masterly effort prevented his mount from turning turtle.

Obtains Good Lead. At the start Parcell showed a mile-a-minute speed and obtained a good lead over Herman, who was ripping along under the policy of "safety" first. The two raced consistently until the fifteenth lap, when Herman met with his first reverse. He was forced to stop for a minute. A few minutes later he was crawling slowly in the Jackson car No. 10 at the upper end, and after passing him both cars

CARDINALS RUN OVER MILWAUKEE "CHAMPS"

JANEVILLE NINE TRAMPLE OVER CREAM CITY TEAM BY SCORE OF 14 TO 3.

M'CURDY SHOWS CLASS

Although Chicago Hurler Was Short on Form, He Was Long on Pitching Ability and Sticking Qualities.

Dr. Russell J. McCurdy of Chicago, Ill., was in the city Sunday afternoon. And the fact that he was here is mainly the reason why the Cardinals kicked, unopposed, and mutilated a team of alleged ball players, representing the Schroeder-Daly commission concern of Milwaukee by the score of 14 to 3.

McCurdy, big, handsome and awkward, sure won a place for himself in the hearts of Janesville fans. He may not be graceful on the ball room floor, but he is all there on the ball diamond. When he mounted the hill in the first inning against the Cream City folk, he was a stranger in a strange land. But after he had fanned two of his opponents in each of the first two innings, and then cracked a sure "snail" triple to the outer works, his first time at bat, he was made to believe that he was as welcome in Janesville as pay day at Schroeder-Daly's.

Lange (not "Big Bill" nor "Columbus Bill") the regular pitcher of the visitors, had missed connections somewhere, according to the manager-umpire of the S.-D.'s when the clock struck three and he hoped "that the bird who was going to sub for him would fill the bill."

Warm Reception. After surviving a warm reception in the first round, McCurdy gave a good account of himself, until the belated Lange rode into the park astride a motorcycle. "Fear" crept into the hearts of the Cardinals as they eyed his enormous frame. But that fear turned to contempt about sixty-three seconds after he supplanted the substitute. Lange, a real home or Croak's home run? We believe it was the mad scramble for the grandstand about two hours after the game started and about three minutes before the rainbow appeared. But let us go on with the game.

Two strike outs and a fly to Ryan was the fate of the visitors in the first. For the locals, Croak led off with an infield hit. He fanned, attempting to sacrifice. Miller singled to right and Croak rode around to third on the bludge. "Push" promptly stole second. A passed ball scored Croak and moved Miller to third. Croak walked and stole. Green hit to Kenngott and perished at first, the base runners moving up a peg. Miller singled. Ryan stole third and the inning came to an end when Morrissey whiffed. Three outs.

Two more fans and an infield out for the men from Brewtown in the second. McCurdy's aforementioned triple and Croak's second bingle, a clean hit that bounced over the pitcher's sky-line, sealed another run for the locals in the second.

Milwaukee Scores. The visitors, through two real singles, a lead play and a sacrifice, had kind of a hit through the box gave Milwaukee two tallies in the third. They again looked dangerous in the fourth when through a single, Miller and Green, by Croak and a combination skull-stick single by our old friend "Wallie" Green and a neat catch of a hard hit liner by Berger saved the visitors from any further base until the ninth, when they scored their third and last marker on a walk, steal, wild pitch and an error by Croak.

The Cardinals rung up another run in the fourth on an error by Smith on Croak's ground-hugger, and a brace of solid swings by the hingesmiths, Miller and Kenngott, sealed another run for the locals in the second.

But the real carnival came in the sixth. Berger first up, drove a single over the first base. Croak hit to Kenngott who fumbled. Hall sacrificed the base runners along a peg and Miller drove them in with a long double to right center. Cornell pushed another double into right, scoring Miller, and took third when Dalman, who had changed places with Lange, threw wild to third. Ryan singled, scoring Cornell. Ryan then commenced falling and Morrissey was at bat. He was urged to fan so the runs scored would be saved. But Lange wouldn't stand for it; he bounced the ball off Morrissey's shoulder and the players madly tore for the grandstand.

Ten minutes later hostilities were resumed and McCurdy walked, fanning the bases. Berger up for the second time in the inning, singled again, but was thrown out a moment later in an attempt to pilfer second. Six big tallies.

Croak opened the seventh with a long hit which hid itself in the tall grass and stayed there until the little shortstop crossed the scoring station. After Hall fanned, Miller made his fourth hit, another base, two bases out of the outer precincts in right center. He politely swiped third and in his mad chase he encountered the third baseman with the ball in his hand. "Push" very recently dodged out of the running path prescribed by the rule makers, and lay down in the dust. The third sacker, a Jew by business, kicked Miller in the neck with the pellet, then tossed it back to the pitcher. "Safe," said the manager-umpire of the S.-D.'s. "Tis so," said Miller to the astonished third baseman who avers that the next time his manager is umpiring he will pitch to the baserunner and sit on him till breakfast.

Push Miller Loose. The last Janesville score came in the eighth. With one down, Morrissey was safe on a base, stole second and third, and rode home on Berger's third single. At that it was great batting practice for the same against the "Fajitas," which will be staged next Sunday.

DUNDEE SHOWS CLASS IN BOUT WITH CROSS

Scotch-Wop Lightweight Is Considered Real Championship Caliber Following New York Match.

By Barry Farris.

New York, July 6.—When he hurled that tough old bird, Leach Cross, in a ten round session here a couple of weeks ago, Johnny Dundee planted himself firmly in the realm of class. The bouncing, complacent little Italian proved conclusively in battering down the dentist-boxer that he belongs up among the top-notchers in the lightweight class.

Previous to his victory over Cross, Dundee, while regarded as one classy youngster, was not taken into the reckoning as a championship contender. Now he is. Of the vast gathering who witnessed the Dundee-Cross tangle, there were few who didn't leave Ebbetts Field with the firm conviction that the Italian was the superior of Freddie Welsh, the present title holder.

New York promoters are now trying to get Dundee and Welsh together. The water always willing to take on a third rate youngster for a mere $1,000 or so, wants such a huge sum for mixing with Dundee that he has scared most of the promoters away.

There has been some talk of putting Dundee and Charley White, Chicago's knock-em-down champion, together in order to eliminate one of them. Dundee, however, has declined White's offer. Dundee has been some talk of putting Dundee and Charley White, Chicago's knock-em-down champion, together in order to eliminate one of them. Dundee, however, has declined White's offer.

The referee, badly rattled, quit counting and there was a big hub-bub during which White's seconds rendered first assistance to him. After considerable delay the lights were restored. White was sitting in his corner, a little pale around the gills, but ready to go some more. Dundee and his manager protested loudly that White had been knocked out. The referee couldn't see it that way and made them continue. The bout went the limit—ten rounds. Montiehe believes that the sudden extinguishing of the lights was not an act of Providence. He thinks a human hand had something to do with it.

EDDIE RICKENBACHER WINS 300 MILE OMAHA SPEED RACE; THREE DRIVERS MET DEATH

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Omaha, Neb., July 6.—Eddie Rickenbacher, in a Maxwell, added another victory to his Sioux City triumph Monday, when he won the Omaha three hundred mile sweepstakes race at an average of 91.74 miles per hour, his time being 3:17:20. Eddie O'Donnell, in a Duesenberg, was second, and Tom Orr, a teammate of Rickenbacher, was third. The winner leaped to the lead at the start, and never was headed. Because of the death of Billy Carlson, Maxwell driver at Tacoma, the Maxwell team disbanded after the race and Rickenbacher went to the tape sobbing on learning of Carlson's death.

Carlson Killed. Wash., July 5.—William Carlson, veteran driver of the Maxwell team, upset while going at terrific pace in the 250 mile race here yesterday, and both he and his mechanic died from the injuries received. His head was crushed.

BETTER TOWN SINCE POOL ROOMS WERE CLOSED.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Waco, Tex., July 6.—After one year's trial of closed pool rooms Waco, the first large city in Texas to abolish the pool hall, is in a better condition morally, than ever before, prominent ministers today hold the United Press. With a population of 50,000 and surrounded by the most populous country in the state, the pool rooms were ousted a year ago. When the pool rooms closed the shark and rascals were driven from the city, one prominent churchman declared. "The youth who loved the game for the sport went to the Y. M. C. A. and the church basement. The larger churches have installed pool tables under morally proper supervision."

THE GOOD JUDGE UNDERSTANDS.

BE GODS, IT WILL TAKE A BETTER MAN THAN YOU TO KAPE ME LAST POUCH OF THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW!

YOU DON'T EXPECT TO GET THIS POUCH BACK AGAIN, MR. CLANCY, NOW THAT YOU'VE LET ME SAMPLE IT?

LISTEN TO THAT!

THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS NOW CUT TWO WAYS!! W-B CUT IS LONG SHRED. RIGHT CUT IS SHORT SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end. The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

(Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste.)

TAX-EATERS' HARD WORK.

There is no question but that through the clever manipulations of the lobby, composed of ultra-progressives, educators and members representing the liquor interests, commonly known as the "Tax-eaters' Lobby," Governor Philipp is meeting with severe opposition to his proposed consolidation measures which have for their object the reduction of state taxes and the placing of the various commissions and forms of government upon a firm business basis.
 This tax-eating organization is most vigilant. They do not let an opportunity escape them to harass the governor and his leaders and every trick of the clever politician is brought into play for their benefit.
 State Senator Bennett is recognized in the senate as the administration leader. He does not beat about the bush when he calls a spade a spade nor does he mince words by referring to the article as a horticultural instrument. According to the Milwaukee Sentinel he treated his colleagues to some refreshing truths on Friday last. Senator Bennett is doing voluntary service at Madison and Rock county is furnishing another solid vote for the consolidation measures
 in the person of Senator Cunningham,
 who sees the wisdom of the governor's ideas and supports them. In his spirited talk to his fellow members,
 Bennett said:

"This bill is marked for killing, as are the other administration bills. It seems to me that they want to keep Governor Philipp from running for United States senator next year by making it necessary for him to remain at home and carry out his program that is being so strongly opposed."

There is no disguising the fact that the position of the so-called administration bills in the senate is extremely precarious.

We shall be agreeably surprised if a single bill that materially affects the entrenched placeholding interest passes that body. Its majority seems to have succumbed to the blandishments, the log-rolling and vote swapping methods of the organized and office-holding standpat influences and lobbies on the spot.

The significance and lessons of the election have lost their edge. The voices of the pre-election taxpayers'
 meetings and of the voters in November is a remote echo drowned in the buzz of the political bees swarmed at Madison in defense of the system.

These "consolidation bills" mean for the taxpayers' reduced cost of government and lower taxes. They are the necessary instruments for the carrying out of the governor's agreement with and mandates from the people.

But these "consolidation bills" also mean for the tax-eating and place-holding politicians' less money to spend and fewer public salaries to draw. Hence the opposition.

And as the opposition is united,
 numerous, organized, disciplined and largely on the spot, it is altogether likely to prevail over a body that apparently contains too many lukewarm trimmers who observe their elections
 by half felt professions of zeal for the policies of retrenchment and economy to be of any service in forwarding the necessary measures.

Certainly the only way to retrench is to cut down excess machinery and expense on the lines indicated by these carefully drawn bills. If the bills are defeated, there will be no retrenchment.

But there will be a lot of handy campaign issues for Mr. Philipp which he will know how to use to the extremest disadvantage of gentlemen who permitted themselves to be jockeyed
 and bamboozled into playing the caus-
 us for the state job trust.

The men responsible (and their votes will mark them) for ditching
 the retrenchment program by defeating the necessary bills will have a fine time in squaring themselves with the voters next year if they have the nerve to seek re-election. We wish them joy of the job.

Meanwhile, Senator Bennett's hint
 that if they prevent the fulfillment of Governor Philipp's tax reduction contract with the voters this year they will compel a renewal of the sanction (with some drastic added clauses) next year may be worth their serious consideration. Defeating the purpose of the voters in electing Mr. Philipp governor may be very smart and funny, from the tax-eaters'
 point of view, and their organs are chuckling already. But the voters have another inning coming, and it will be a good one.

THE FAIR NEXT.

Now that the Fourth is passed, the celebration all over, the next holiday on the program is the Janesville fair week. The coming exhibition promises to be one of the best in the state
 this year if present interest displayed counts for anything. It is expected that the fair spaces will be taxed to capacity and the entries for the racing cards show that there will be plenty of excellent horse flesh on hand
 to delight lovers of the sport of kings.
 The Janesville fair is here to stay.
 It has been given recognition by the state and is on the accredited list of fairs and exhibits to receive state aid
 so that its financial success is assured. With good weather the coming week in August should be a most memorable one. It is up to every citizen to boost the fair and do their part to make it successful.

THE STREETS.

Citizens are urged to bear with the street department in their efforts to complete the summer campaign of cleaning the streets and making other repairs necessary. The cold, wet month of May followed by a second month of bad weather, has seriously handicapped the department and they are now rushing work as fast as possible to make up for lost time. It might be suggested, however, that instead of using coarse gravel with plenty of pebbles that are dangerous
 to pedestrians and private property,
 that screened sand be used to cover
 the oil on the streets. Autos striking the pebbles are liable to throw them
 for some distance, breaking windows or even hitting pedestrians, and are a menace to the public. However, this will doubtless be adjusted and the work continued.

The attack upon J. P. Morgan by a hair-brained fanatic who claims he sought to right the alleged wrongs of the world by killing one of the financial agents, is just another menace that men in public life and before the world at large for doing big things, suffer. There is no doubt that Morgan's assailant is crazy, but then such crazy men are a menace just the same.

Counting fingers and seeing all parts of the anatomy are in place
 is part of the work of the parents after a strenuous two days' celebration of the nation's birthday, by the young Americans whose idea of enjoyment is burning all the fireworks
 they can within a limited space of time.

Despite the fact it was a trifle cool
 over the holidays just over, thousands of visitors crowded various resorts
 and traveled miles by autos in search of enjoyment.

Already the talk starts that Janesville must celebrate the Fourth in 1916, well, once in two years is often enough at best.

SNAP SHOTS

What we look for in friends is congeniality, not character.

The difference between men and boys is that men are willing to wait until next year, while boys want it now.

That a woman loves her husband is a probability; that she is jealous
 of him is a certainty.

Your objection to special privilege probably is based on the fact that you are not permitted to enjoy it.

 hero, but his wife knows him for what he is.

The wronged husband has his revenge when the man who alienated
 his wife's affections marries her.

A good wife is one who regards marriage as a co-partnership. A poor wife is one who looks upon it as a sinecure.

MAKING YOUR MIND BEHAVE.

A fragment of a familiar poem sent us all searching our memories for the initial lines.

"I know where I can find it," volunteered Molly, the little stenographer lady.

But the author man wouldn't let her. "Wait a moment," he said; I know it and I'll think of it presently."

He walked down the garden path alone. Five minutes later he came back with his eyes shining. "I have it now," said Molly.

"I could have found it in half that time," said Molly.

"I know it," said the author man, "but I wanted to make my mind give it to me. Next time I shall remember more easily for sticking to it this time."

And I think most of us could operate with advantage.

The average mind is the biggest shirk in the world. If you give it half a chance it will turn away from anything which is hard, suggesting that you look it up somewhere or ask someone about it, or put off trying to think it out until some other time.

When anyone talks to you about something you do not easily understand, a theory of economics, the construction of some machinery or some such under-the-surface subject, what do you do? Do you pretend to understand and screen your actual blankness with the paraphernalia of make-believe understanding—smiles, wise looks, catch words and ready acquiescence? Or do you force your mind to grapple with the subject and ask for enlightenment on points you do not understand?

Slovenly Minds As Well As Slovenly Bodies.

There is such a thing as a slovenly mind as well as a slovenly body. And slovenliness of mind is a progressive habit. Every time you let your mind follow the line of least resistance you weaken its power to hear a path through obstacles. And conversely, whenever you insist on your mind's overcoming an obstacle it gains the strength of the obstacle it overcomes.

Question: Do you think a father should be called on to take some of the care of his children, or is it enough for him to earn the money and let a hard-working man, Sunday is my rest day. My wife thinks I ought to take care of our two babies a few hours every Sunday. What do you think about it?—Hard-Working Man.

Answer: That depends somewhat on how hard your wife has to work. If she does not have any help and has the care of two babies and all the household work I fancy she may need a little rest on Sunday as much as you. Besides, don't you want to have some companionship with your babies for both their infrequent fathers and their mothers? Take them out in the fields and be friends with them and the beautiful outdoor world.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"You'll have to walk the floor with him, dear," came in a stage whisper from the lower berth. "This is impossible; these people have paid for their berths and it's not fair to keep them awake all night." Dick looked at her and then at the man who was snoring loudly.

"Well, he has exhausted every resource to get the quiet without avail."

"If we ever get him home we'll keep him there till we can make him sleep. That's one sure thing," Dick was insisting.

"What are you going to do?" she asked, a note of anxiety in her voice. "I don't know, but I'm going to walk the floor with him. I'm going to do something to shut off his noise, if I can, or take him to the baggage car. We'll all be murdered if he keeps up, and with reason. Give him to me. He placed the baby over his shoulder. This will distribute the noise evenly to all parts of the car, anyway," he snorted as he started off.

Nell listened with tense nerves while the cry was fortissimo or pianissimo in a regular crescendo or receding from the berth.

Heads began to appear outside the enveloping curtains; one bellicose man with grizzled hair and face decorated with a two-days' growth of beard demanded in raucous tones of the approaching Dick:

"Can't you ring off that noise?" "I'm using all my muscular force to that end with no appreciable result," answered Dick, his good humor restored by the traveler's ill-nature. "Can you suggest anything?"

"Babies being at home, it's an outrage to bring them aboard a sleeping car and make sleep impossible for the whole car full of people."

"I'm putting forth my best effort to get the young man home, and I've done everything but strangle him to shut him up. Perhaps you'd like to have a turn. He's over to you, strange!" Dick paused in front of the berth.

Heads were protruding all along the line. Since they could not sleep, the occupants might as well enjoy the passing show.

"Let me take him," suggested a motherly old lady. "I've tended scores of babies first and last. You are nervous over the situation and that affects him."

Nell in her kimono and slippers was coming down the aisle. "No baby cries like this unless something is wrong," she said.

"I'll take him to the dressing room and keep him there till he quiets down."

Dick handed him over with alacrity, while he wiped the sweat of honest toil from his forehead. "Bring the steps, porter," he ordered, and climbed from view.

The wall softened by distance and draperies continued with flut inter-raptures. Finally the motherly old lady, wrapped in her kimono, rolled out of her berth and went to the scene of action.

"Nell, looking up baby is sick," said the old lady. "No baby cries like this unless something is wrong."

"Give him to me," said the comfortable voice. "Crying is a serious symptom; any baby with lungs like that is a healthy specimen," she said.

"She laid him over her plump shoulder and softly patted his back."

"He's in a strange place and he's frightened. Both of you are so nervous over the situation you make an atmosphere so tense around him that it keeps him nervously wrought up."

"There, there, dear," she continued as the cries softened to little gasping sobs. "He's exhausted. He'll sleep when once he's quieted down."

"It's to be hoped so," said Nell with a long, tremulous sigh.

"Now you go and get settled in your berth and I'll bring him to you; he'll be asleep in a minute."

"Oh, thank you so much," said Nell gratefully.

Letters May Be Addressed To Mrs. Thompson, in Care of The Gazette.

HEART AND BEAUTY. Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls nineteen and twenty years old.

(1) We are both brunettes. What would be a good color for an evening dress, and a rather nice, expensive one?

(2) It is nice to take our boy friends out in our auto if our parents do not object.

(3) Is it wrong to slap a boy when he tries to kiss you and you don't want him to?

(4) What is a nice, dainty color to go with a bedroom furnished in birdseye maple?

(5) What furniture is suitable for a small room off your bedroom?

(6) What is a good way to tell a gentleman that you do not want to hurt his feelings?

VIOLET AND ROSE. (1) Yellow, flesh color, pale blue and old rose. Pussy willow taffeta, crepe de chine, Georgette crepe.

(2) I should think it would be "nice," especially for the boys.

(3) Yes. Boys consider it a challenge to go ahead.

(4) Corn color, pink, blue, lavender.

(5) A desk, lounge, table, easy chairs, whatever there is room for and desired.

(6) Honey Suckle, Cinnamon Vine, Virginia Creeper.

(7) Say that you are busy. After he has heard the same excuse a few times he will cease to bother you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of twenty and went with a boy for about fifteen months until about five weeks ago. Some time ago I left the town where I had been working and

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

A wire corn popper can be very nicely used for a toaster. Place as many slices of bread as desired in the popper, then set on the hot lid of stove. The bread will toast to a rich brown, and when buttered will taste more delicious than if toasted over gas.

To Prevent Slamming Doors—Purchase some small hooks. Put hook on baseboard door bumper, and eye in door. Fasten, and there will be no fear of broken glass or no need to search for a chair or weight to hold the door.

Easy Way to Pit Cherries—Take a hairpin, insert round end into stem end of the cherry under the pit, and you will be surprised how easily you can lift the stone out, leaving the cherry practically whole.

MILK SHERBERT.

Dissolve one cup sugar in one quart milk; put into freezer, pack and freeze about five minutes.

Beat whites of two eggs stiff, add one cup sugar and juice of two lemons, beating together thoroughly.

Open the freezer when in the last mixture and finish freezing.

TWO PICNIC SANDWICHES.

Between the slices of bread lay a crisp leaf of lettuce. On this place sliced tomatoes, then bits of cream cheese, spread thinly with prepared mustard or salad dressing, a dash of Hungarian sweet paprika, and you have a delicious sandwich.

Minced salmon mixed with English walnut meats (chopped) and moistened with salad dressing, on a lettuce leaf, between slices of brown bread, is good.

THE TABLE.

String Beans and New Potatoes—Cover desired amount of beans with water, add a generous piece of bacon and let boil slowly for a couple of hours. Then add new potatoes, and do not let boil another hour.

Do not let boil another hour. When ready to serve, there should be enough liquid to cover about two-thirds.

Inexpensive Delight—Drain juice from a quart can of marshmallows and cook. When cooked, set in cold place until ready to serve.

When ready to serve, mix with whipped cream, stir in fruit and nuts. Top with whipped cream and marshmallows.

Creamed Potatoes—Pare potatoes, cut them into cubes and boil until done. Take one cup of cream of milk and a half a tablespoonful of milk, mix together smoothly and pour over the potatoes.

Put in paraffin cups which are decorated with red-white-and-blue ribbons or paper.

Peanut Nutmeg Sausages—Mix together three-fourths cup hot cooked cereal, one-fourth cup soft sifted bread crumbs, two cups finely crushed peanuts, half teaspoon salt, a little pepper, and half teaspoon each of powdered thyme and sage. Mix all together thoroughly, then mix with one egg beaten light and form into ten shapes to resemble sausage links.

Set these on a pan rubbed over with butter. Bake twenty minutes. Serve with bananas cut in halves crosswise, then lengthwise, rolled in flour and browned in hot fat. Serve at the same time about a cup of tomato or cream sauce.

Baked Rhubarb, Dampings—Cut up 12 pounds rhubarb, add one heaping cup sugar and half cup hot water. Cook seven minutes. Make a paste of half cup flour, scant half cup butter and half teaspoon baking powder; bind together with cold water, roll out, cut in four-inch rounds. Place two tablespoons stewed rhubarb in each round, gather up the dough in balls, pinch edges so they will hold.

Getter brush with milk, sprinkle with sugar. Bake in hot oven. Serve with remaining sauce, to which has been added a lump of butter the size of a hickorynut. Thicken with one teaspoon corn starch dissolved in one tablespoon cold water. Boil up. Serve hot.

FEAR CANAL BANK ON WEST SIDE WILL SLIDE INTO PRISM.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Panama, July 6.—Although the condition of the channel through the Culebra Cut section of the Panama Canal now is excellent and sufficient to permit the passage of the largest dreadnaughts in the United States Navy, fears are expressed that soon practically the entire bank of the canal from Contractors Hill to the village of Culebra will slide into the canal prism.

A thorough survey of the entire section has just been completed and it has been discovered that the high up on the hillside many ominous fissures have opened which indicate that practically the entire section will ultimately have to be removed from the channel by the dredges.

The section extends for approximately 2,500 feet parallel to the canal and for about 1,500 feet back from the canal axis.

The section is known as Old Culebra Slide because here occurred the first great slide in the canal which caused many persons to fear that the waterway could never be finished.

The present movement, however, has been very slow, although a short time ago it was discovered that a more rapid motion had set in. The engineers declare the entire movement is wholly a surface one which will not precipitate a large quantity of debris into the canal. Nor do they believe its removal will be other than a matter of time.

The condition of Cucaracha and New Culebra Slides is all that could be wished, the engineers declare. At the toe of Cucaracha the channel has reached practically its planned width and depth and now the dredges are largely occupied with removing such small quantities of debris as are loosened by drilling operations. In front of New Culebra the channel has practically been cleared. All movement in both slides has ceased.

STRANGE COLLECTION OF PROFESSIONAL MEN IN BRITISH BRIGADE.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

London, July 6.—It was a strange spectacle that the old hands at the Woolwich arsenal looked on when the Volunteer Munitions Brigade lined up there for its first twelve hours shift. One young man in old cricket flannels stepped out of a motorcar. Some came bringing their lunches in leather attache cases which lawyers and stock brokers carry private papers in. Northwich standing the old clothes dangle from the bottoms of their wardrobes, the air of the city, which in the local phrase means the financial district, struck to the volunteers.

The brigade is composed of all sorts and conditions of men from lawyers, engineering men, clerks and brokers to plumbers, barbers and others thrumming their heels.

The brigade was greeted by Mr. E. F. Donaldson, chief superintendent of the royal ordnance factories, as they went to work on a Sunday morning on their twelve-hour trial shift.

At present, the volunteers are making cartridges for service rifles. A skilled worker acted as instructor. The absolute novices were given minor work such as is usually performed by boys.

A small wage is paid by the government, but as the work is voluntary these wages are handed to the brigades' funds for war charities.

The trial put the movement on a practical footing. One noticeable feature was the comradeship between the volunteers and the union men.

LIBERTY BELL ON ITS LONGEST TRIP

Taken by Special Train From Philadelphia to 'Frisco Exposition.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Philadelphia, July 6.—The bell which on July 4, 1776, 139 years ago today, rang for more than two hours from the steeple of the old State House here in joyful annunciation of the fact that the representatives of the thirteen colonies had proclaimed the independence of the United States, is ready for the longest trip journey it has ever taken, not excepting the journey it made from England in colonial days. By special train it will start from Philadelphia at three o'clock on its first journey across the continent, to be exhibited at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in San Francisco, and for a brief time at more than sixty cities and towns en route.

The itinerary of the Liberty Bell trip has been carefully arranged to afford the best possible exhibition at all places where the train will stop. It is expected that great throngs of persons will catch a glimpse of the bell before it reaches the Exposition on the way West, Harrisburg and Pittsburgh, Pa.; Chicago, Ill.; Des Moines, Ia.; Topeka, Kan.; Kansas City and Neb.; Denver, Col.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Walla Walla, Spokane, Everett, Seattle and Olympia, Wash., and Portland, Ore., are the places which will have an hour or more for viewing the bell.

SAINT QUENTIN IS CONCENTRATION POINT FOR GERMAN DAMAGED GOODS.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Paris, July 6.—Saint Quentin, supposed to be the general headquarters of German armies operating in France and Belgium, is the concentration point for damaged guns and rolling stock. The Krupps have installed in a motorcar works there a plant for the repair of cannon, machine guns, automobiles, gun carriages, etc. German workmen were imported from Essen to equip the plant. Barbed wire is also prepared for the use and distribution from there.

The Saint Quentin works turns out an iron picket in the form of a crook screw to replace the wooden pickets; they are thus able to stretch their barbed wire defenses without revealing their work to the enemy by the noise of driving pickets into the ground. The Germans have installed a chemical works at Saint Quentin.

FIRECRACKERS BANNED IN NATIONAL CAPITAL

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, July 6.—Safety and sanity was the rule of the nation's capital Monday. Firecrackers were banned; also shotguns, revolvers and even the snappy torpedo. Torpedo canes and even cap pistols were tabooed by local regulation.

Juvenile citizens here had to content themselves with innocuous "fizzers," flower pots and pinwheels. But in place of a rip roaring noisy celebration was provided.

A parade yesterday, including an allegorical pageant, speeches and free lavish exhibition of fireworks at the Washington Monument grounds tonight was the program. Almost all of officials was absent today, together with thousands of government

"Wait a minute," he commanded. "Let me get it straight! You still believe that the thing I did was a criminal thing?"

"We needn't go into that part of it again," she returned, with a sort of placid impatience. "Once I thought that there might be some way in which you had justified yourself to yourself, but now—"

"That isn't the point," he interrupted roughly. "What I want to know is this: Do you still believe it is a crime?"

"Of course, it is a crime, I know it, you know it, all the world knows it." Again he sat back and took time to gather up a few of the scattered shards and fragments. When he spoke it was to say: "I think the debt is on the other side, Miss Charlotte; I think you owe me something. You probably won't understand when I say that you

"Is That the Only Reason Why You Haven't Set the Dogs on Me?"

have robbed me of a very precious thing—my faith in the ultimate goodness of a good woman. You believe you have always believed—that I am a criminal; and yet you have been weak enough to let expediency seal your lips. I am truer to my code than you are to yours, as you shall see if the day ever comes when I shall be convinced that I did wrong. But that is neither here nor there. You sent for me; what is it that you want me to do?"

"I want to give you one more chance to disappoint the Wahaska gossips," she replied, entirely unmoved, as it seemed, by his harsh arraignment. "Do you know why this man Broffin is still waiting?"

"I can guess. He is taking a long chance on the chapter of accidents." "Not altogether. Three days ago, Mr. Galbraith had Miss Grierson telegraph to New Orleans for some one of the bank officials. Yesterday I learned that the man who is coming is the teller who waited on me and who gave you the money. As soon as I heard that, I began to try to find you."

Griswold did not tell her that the danger she feared was a danger past.

"Go on," he prompted. "You are no longer safe in Wahaska," she asserted. "The teller can identify you, and the detective will give him the opportunity. That is doubtless what he is waiting for."

"And you would suggest that I make a run for it? Is that why you sent for me?"

"It is. You are tempting fate by staying; and, notwithstanding what you have said, I still insist that you owe me something. There is a fast train west at ten o'clock. If you need ready money—"

Griswold laughed. "It had gone beyond the tragic and was fast lapsing into comedy, farce."

"We are each of us appearing in a new role tonight, Miss Farnham," he said, with sardonic humor; "I as the hunted criminal, and you as the equally culpable accessory after the fact. If I run away, what shall be done with the 'swag,' the bulk of which, as you know, is tied up in Raymer's business?" "I have thought of that," she returned calmly, "and that is another reason why you shouldn't let them take you. Right or wrong, you have incurred a fresh responsibility in your dealings with Mr. Raymer; and Edward, who is perfectly innocent, must be protected in some way."

It was not in human nature to resist the temptation to strike back.

"I have told Raymer how he can most successfully underwrite his financial risk," he said, with malice intentional.

"How?"

"By marrying Miss Grierson."

He had touched the springs of anger at last.

"That woman!" she broke out. And then: "If you have said that to Edward Raymer, I shall never forgive you as long as I live! It is your affair to secure Edward against loss in the money matter—your own individual responsibility. Mr. Griswold, He accepted the money in good faith, and—"

Again Griswold gave place to the caustic humor and finished for her. "And, though it is stolen money, it must not be taken away from him. Once, when I was even more foolish than I am now, I said of you that you would be a fitting heroine in a story in which the hero should be a man who might need to borrow a conscience. It's quite the other way around."

"We needn't quarrel," she said, retreating again behind the barrier of cold reserve. "I suppose I have given you the right to say disagreeable things to me, if you choose to assert it. But we are wasting time which may be very precious. Will you go away, as I have suggested?"

He found his hat and got upon his feet rather unsteadily.

"I don't know; possibly I shall. But in any event, you needn't borrow any more trouble, either on your own account, or on Raymer's. By the merest chance, I met Johnson, the teller you speak of, a few minutes ago at the Winnebago house and was introduced to him. He didn't know me, then, or later, when Broffin was telling him that he ought to know me. Hence, the matter rests as it did before—between you and Mr. Galbraith."

"Mr. Galbraith?"

"Yes. That was a danger past, too, a short time ago. I met him, socially, and he didn't recognize me. Afterward, Broffin pointed me out to him, and again he failed to identify me. But the other day, after I had pulled him out of the lake, he remembered. I've been waiting to see what he will do."

"He will do nothing. You saved his life."

Griswold shook his head. "I am still man enough to hope that he won't let the bit of personal service make him compound a felony."

"Why do you call it that?" she demanded.

"Because, from his point of view, and yours, that is precisely what it is; and it is what you are doing, Miss Farnham. I, the criminal, say this to you. You should have given me up the moment you recognized me. That is your creed, and you should have lived up to it. Since you haven't, you have wronged yourself and have made me the poorer by a thing that—"

"Stop!" she cried, standing up to face him. "Do you mean to tell me that you are ungrateful enough to—"

"No; ingratitude isn't quite the word. I'm just sorry; with the sorrow you have when you look for something that you have a right to expect, and find that it isn't there; that it has never been there; that it isn't anywhere. You have hurt me, and you have hurt yourself; but there is still a chance for you. When I am gone, go to the telephone and call Broffin at the Winnebago house. You can tell him that he will find me at my rooms. Good-by."

He was half way to the foot of Lakeview avenue, striding along moodily with his head down and his hands behind him, when he collided violently with Raymer going in the opposite direction. The shock was so unexpected that Griswold would have been knocked down if the muscular young iron founder had not caught him promptly. At the saving instant came mutual recognition.

"Hello, there!" said Raymer. "You are the very man I've been looking for. Charlotte wants to see you."

"Not now she doesn't," was the rather grim contradiction. "I have just left her."

"Oh."

There was a pause, and then Griswold out in morosely.

"So you did take my way out of the labor trouble, after all, didn't you?" Raymer looked away.

"I don't know just how you'd like to have me answer that, Kenneth. How much or how little do you know of what happened?"

"Nothing at all"—shortly.

"Well, it was Margery who wrought the miracle, of course. I don't know, yet, just how she did it; but it was done, and done right."

"And you have asked her to marry you?"

"Suffering Scott! how you do come at a man! Yes, I asked her, if you've got to know."

"Well?" snapped Griswold.

"She—she turned me down, Kenneth; got up and walked all over me. That's a horrible thing to make me say, but it's the truth."

"I don't understand it, Raymer. Was it the No that means No?"

"I don't understand it, either," returned the iron founder, with grave misgivings. "And, yes, I guess she meant it. But that reminds me. She knew I was looking for you and she gave me a note—let me see, I've got it here somewhere; oh, yes, here it is—gilt monogram and all."

Griswold took the note and pocketed it without comment and without looking at it.

"Were you going to Doctor Bertie's?" he asked.

"I was. Have you any objection?"

"Not the least in the world. It's a good place for you to go just now, and I guess you are the right man for the place. Good-night."

At the next corner where there was an electric light, Griswold stopped and opened the monogrammed envelope. The enclosure was a single sheet of perfumed note paper upon which, without date, address or signature was written the line:

"Mr. Galbraith is better—and he is grateful."

CHAPTER XXX.

Apples of Isthakhar.

The swinging arc light suspended above the street crossing sputtered and died down to a dull red dot of incandescence as Griswold returned Margery's note to his pocket and walked on.

There are crises in which the chief contention looms so large as to leave no room for the ordinary mental processes. Griswold saw no significance in the broken line of Margery's message. The one tremendous revelation—the knowledge that the cross-circled curse had finally fallen upon the woman whose convictions should have saved her—was blotting out all the subtler perceptive faculties; and for the time the struggle with the submerging wave of disappointment and disheartenment was bitter.

He was two squares beyond the crossing of the broken-circled arc light, and was still following the curve of the lakeside boulevard, when he came to the surface of the submerged wave long enough to realize that he had entered Jasper Grierson's portion of the water-front drive. The great house, dark as its westward gables save for the lighted upper windows marking the sick room and its antechamber, loomed in massive solidity among its sheltering oaks; and the moon, which had now topped the hills and the crimsoning smoke haze, was bathing land and lakescape in a flood of silver light, whitening the pale yellow sands of the beach and etching fantastic leaf-traceries on the gravel of the boulevard driveway.

There was no inclosing fence on the Mereside border of the boulevard, and under the nearest of the lawn oaks there were rustic park seats, Jasper Grierson's single concession to the public when he had fought for and secured his property right-of-way through to the lake's margin. Griswold turned aside and sat down on one of the benches. The disappointment was growing less keen. He was beginning to understand that he had made no allowance for the eternal feminine in the idealized Fidelis—for the feminine and the straitly human. But the disheartenment remained. Should he stay and fight it out? Or should he take pity upon the poor prisoner of the conventions and seek to postpone the day of reckoning by flight?

He had not fitted the answer to either of these sharp-pointed queries when a pair of light-fingered hands came from behind to clap themselves upon his eyes, and a well-known voice said, "Guess."

"Margery!" he said, and she laughed with the joyous unconstraint of a happy child and came around to sit by him.

"I was doing time out on the veranda, and I saw you down here in the moonlight, looking as if you had lost something," she explained, adding: "Have you?"

"I don't know; can you lose that which you've never had?" he returned musingly. And then: "Yes; perhaps I did lose something. Don't ask me what it is. I hardly know, myself."

"You have just come from Doctor Bertie's?" she inquired.

"Yes."

"And Charlotte doesn't want to marry you?" "Heavens and earth!" he exploded. "Who put the idea into your head that I wanted to marry her?"

"You did"—calmly.

"Then, for pity's sake, let me take it out, quick. If I were the last man on earth, Miss Farnham wouldn't marry me; and if she were the last woman, I think I'd go down myself in the lake!"

The young woman of the many metamorphoses was laughing again, and this time the laugh was a letter-perfect imitation of a schoolgirl giggle.

"My!" she said. "How dreadfully hard she must have sat on you!"

Excessive carbon, scored cylinders, "knocking," power wasted in friction—all of which over-load your motor—are destructive, costly, unnecessary troubles.

Hundreds of thousands of motorists in the middle west alone—all won to POLARINE in the last seven years—know the protection, the efficiency and the pleasure resulting from the scientific lubricating oil.

Do YOU know this oil?—an oil sufficiently fluid to lubricate and completely cover the remotest friction surface.

—an oil of maximum durability and correct lubricating body at any motor speed or temperature.

—an oil that pays back its cost, not only by saving repairs but by maintaining a high re-sale value for your car.

Why experiment?—when the greatest of all specialists in matters of lubrication have experimented for you. Use Polarine.

doesn't seem to me to represent any sincere and sensible inquiry," remarked the man who thinks hard about trifles.

"That is true," replied Miss Cayenne. "When I meet several people I know I am always tempted to say 'why' instead of 'how.'"

The furniture man drove up to the door, and the new extension dining room table was carried in.

Little Willie stood watching as his father and mother, one at each end, pulled the table apart. His eyes grew big as his father put one board after another in place until the table was double its original length.

"Gee!" said Willie at last. "I always thought addition tables was only something in the arithmetic book."

"It pays to buy a good straw hat. Look at this one I'm wearing. I paid fifteen dollars for it last summer."

FAIL TO GET TRUTH ABOUT UNIVERSITY

Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau Attacks Legislative Method of Getting at the Facts.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, July 6.—The Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau, in its bulletin No. 29, suggests that the Wisconsin senate investigate its own and the public's inability to get the truth about the university from university sources. It charges that the legislature has been failing to get and can not get the truth from university sources unless it changes its method. The senate committee—Senators Bushard, Huber and Monk—appointed to inquire about the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau, rebuked citizens for reporting facts from official documents about public business. It did not question the facts. It could not. The New York Evening Post. The Nation, and other out-of-state papers, and the Wisconsin State Journal, which is out-of-state owned, are misrepresenting the facts about the university. By their action these senators joined forces with these papers. Any senator doubting this inability to get the truth must have been disillusioned last week in the hearings on the central board of education bill. Here was demonstrated the need for a citizen bureau to tell the truth about public business in spite of official or unofficial attacks.

A former president of the university board of visitors stated that the bill board opposed securing certain facts and wanted to postpone issuing others because the legislature was in session and might use them to the disadvantage of the university. The next day the chairman of the board of visitors, who is editor of the Wisconsin State Journal, denied this statement. This editor is the man who published the Weinman articles last summer, written by a university officer, paid for by the university, yet appearing under a false name. The editor-chairman attempted to prevent the publication of the history and facts about these articles in the university survey report. Why doesn't the legislature investigate?

Resident Seaman stated that there was no waste in the university. The state board of public affairs (Ex-Senators Sanborn, Hutton, Ex-Speaker Hull and others) saw waste as shown in its report on the university survey, in use of buildings, in small classes, in teaching, in research, in outside employment.

President Van Hise said that a legislative committee in Illinois had made the most exhaustive study yet made of the educational system of the state and had reported in a thick volume, and that it recommended a board somewhat like the proposed Staudenmayer board of estimate. The committee did not make an exhaustive study. It accepted the results of an instructor at the University of Illinois. The thick book covers the whole system of state activity of all kinds. The report on educational administration, the only phase of education studied, covers five pages with an appendix, which is the report of the Illinois instructor, of 53 pages, of which 26 are on educational administration in Illinois. The remainder are on educational administration elsewhere, state examining board, etc. A board of five members "to have general powers of advice and supervision in regard to the public school system and all educational interests of the state" was recommended. This board was also to have supervision over the proposed normal board and the university trustees. No budgetary powers were specified.

The editor of the State Journal, who is chairman of the board of visitors, on July 1st printed editorially parts of a letter from a Princeton university professor which suggested keeping facts from official documents about the university published by the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau from going outside the state. No pseudo-friend of the university has suggested that the university publicly and misrepresenting facts be gagged. Will the senate learn whether the university and the chairman of the board of visitors are hurting the university and the public by their publicity?

This is not an argument for or against the central board of education. The Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau is not concerned with this or any other bill. What it wants is the truth on any and every bill for the legislature and citizens. The legislature is not getting this truth, and so long as conditions present methods, it will not get it.

AUXILIARY FOOD SUPPLY OF MUSHROOMS IS URGED.

Hamburg, July 6.—As an auxiliary food supply, of which little advantage has been taken, mushrooms are being urged upon Catholics as substituted for meat on fast days.

Dr. von Langemann, a Dresden physician, estimates that there are over 300 kinds of mushrooms in Germany. At least one quarter of these are not only edible but nourishing and tasty, while only seven can be classified as poisonous mushrooms.

The annual crop, if it were harvested, would run into the millions of marks in value, he believes, and would supply hundreds of tons of food to the inhabitants of villages in the vicinity of forests have learned to supply themselves with a valuable food that costs nothing but the gathering.

New York, July 6.—Seventy-three accidents happened yesterday as a result of fireworks, pistols, etc., two fatal wounds and a young man killed by a stray bullet. Three young men were drowned at Rockaway in addition to those reported injured by a railway accident at Rockaway yesterday. Mr. Poppenhausen, president of the road, was seriously hurt.

New Orleans-Vicksburg, July 6.—A disturbance at a negro meeting at the court house yesterday grew out of a difficulty of two white men, one of whom was dangerously wounded. A pistol was then drawn by a negro, Ben Ames, was knocked down at once by a white man and severely beaten.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 6.—The balloon, City of Buffalo, which left here yesterday, anchored last night at its home and re-ascended this morning.

LOCAL CREWS FIGURE
IN WRECK
SATURDAY AFTERNOON

The northbound Chicago and North-western noon passenger train for Fond du Lac was delayed for a period of about three hours at Jefferson Saturday afternoon because of a wreck in which two Janesville train crews figured. Engineer Charles Garbutt with Conductor Conley, were on No. 52, the way-freight, southbound. Engineer Grant Smith with Conductor William Lowery had charge of the north of Jefferson. The latter crew had just kicked a car onto a siding and were proceeding on the main line for a short distance, not noticing the approaching freight train. The two engines crashed together, damaging both extensively. Aside from a few badly mangled joints both crews personally escaped unhurt. The Fond du Lac wrecker cleared the line.

DO YOU WANT $10,000;
THEN FIND THIS NECKLACE

A reward of $10,000 is offered by the Pinkerton Detective agency for the recovery of a million dollar necklace and that was taken by a police department here this morning. The letter sent here states that a necklace and ring were stolen from a residence in Southampton, New York, on June 22nd, and the necklace contains 71 pearls, weighing 529.60 grains with a pearl clasp and that the pearls are of a fine light rose of pinkish tint, lustrous and quite perfect. If there was any show of getting that ten thousand in this city we would "frisk" the whole town, facetiously said Chief Champion, on reading the poster.

CLINTON HUSBAND RELEASED
ON DISMISSAL OF COMPLAINT.

When Lawrence Henning of Clinton was arranged in the municipal court this morning on the state's charges of wife desertion, made by his pretty and youthful bride, his case was dismissed by the court on the motion of District Attorney S. G. Dunn. After an investigation by the District Attorney interesting facts were uncovered regarding Henning's marriage to the Clinton girl and was because it was believed the marriage was invalid—the case was dismissed. There was no evidence of a reconciliation, both departing from the court room in separate ways.

Verona, Old Italian City, Austrians' Object Point

Washington, D. C., July 6.—"Immediately inside the Italian border before the Austrian city of Trent, lies the wealthy and important city of Verona, an important railway center, a treasury of art, a museum of splendid remains from Roman times through all of the middle ages, and one of the most beautiful and interesting cities of northern Italy," according to the geographic statement issued by the National Geographic society today, which deals with the most recent of hostile frontiers in Europe.

"Verona is a fortress of the first class," the statement continues, "and one of the foremost military centers toward the Austrian frontier. It is a times, a garrison of more than 6,000 men is stationed here, and here are located the administrative offices of Italy's Army Corps."

"Verona is less than ten miles distant from the Austrian frontier, from that part of the Austrian Tyrol that projects as a deep wedge into the Italian hill country. It lies 71 miles west of Venice by rail and 93 miles east of Milan, another great northern railway center, on both banks of the rapid Adige river. It is 194 feet above sea level, with the main and older part of the city lying within an abrupt loop made by the river. The population of the city, with its suburbs, is about 80,000. The main railway lines from Modena and Mantua to Trent and Bozen, and from Venice to Milan cross in the city. The Verona-Venezia-Friuli line parallels the Austrian frontier and has many strategic branches of much the same value to the Italians in their present struggle as the Posen-Tilsit line was to the Germans in their defense of their eastern frontier."

"Verona must be the immediate objective of any invasion from the Trent to the south, and the key to the industrial and farming region to the great northern towns of Milan and Turin. To the east lies Venice, and the Venetian lagoon, a consoling of thriving manufacturing towns. The frontier before Verona is strongly fortified, both on the Italian and Austrian sides. In recent years, a wide-ringing circle of forts, far outside of the obsolete city walls, were begun as a new scheme for the city's defense. The building of these redoubts raised Verona to the position of a fortress of the first rank."

"The beginnings of the Veronese fortifications that still remain standing today date from 1527, when Verona was captured by the Venetians and bastions by Sanmichele. Following the Congress of Vienna, Verona fell to Austria's share, and the Austrians caused the city to be strongly fortified. The Austrians further fortified Peschiera, Mantua, and Legnago, forming the famous 'Quadrilateral,' upon which powerful series of fortresses the Austrian rule in Italy rested for its principal support until 1866. Verona is the key position to northern Italy."

"Both prosperous and progressive, the city has multiplied its industrial endeavor many times during the last score years. Today there are large paper and cotton mills in the city, an immense nail factory, and piano and other factories. It is also a significant manufacture of war munitions centered here, extensive artillery establishments, and important armaments. Among the other more important manufactures are silk, soap, candles and sugar. Verona is a large and growing agricultural commerce, being one of the first Italian cities to export wine, fruit, and other products. It exports wine, fruit, and other products, and, twice each year, it held a noted horse market."

"A city of ancient art works, of weather-stained, white marble paces, often richly sculptured and sometimes showing the worn evidence of Pompeian paintings, with impressive well-preserved remains from the days of before the Christian era, Verona has somewhat the appearance of a luxurious decay, with which a confident success in the future is tinged. The spirit of the last few years has thrashed sharply. The museums, picture galleries, libraries, and ancient churches of Verona team with rare treasures. The city is the birthplace of the famous Romans, Catullus, Cornelius Nepos, Pliny the Younger and Vitruvius."

TYROLESE SHARP SHOOTERS ARE MOST EFFICIENT IN MILITARY ORGANIZATION

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Vienna, June 6.—The war with Italy has brought out ready for action, a body of men that are perhaps unique in the world over—the Tyrolean Sharp Shooters. Thousands of these men, ranging from 17 up to old age, the members of the 406 royal and imperial "shooting stands," constitute one of the most efficient organizations of their kind in Europe.

The shooting stands are volunteer organizations elsewhere, but in Austria are controlled by and are a part of the state. When called out, the "stands" go as units and are assigned to special duty. The members wear the national Tyrolean costume, with arm bands to identify them.

There is no age limit for the sharp shooters, and for generations it has been a matter of personal pride to keep fit and in good condition. It has been close to a disgrace to be relieved of membership on a physician's recommendation.

GERMANY IS MAKING EFFORTS AT PRESENT FOR NEXT WINTER CAMPAIGN.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Amsterdam, July 6.—A considerable part of German efforts are now being concentrated upon preparations for the campaign next winter. Women in large numbers are being employed in sewing new furs for the army, while those used last winter which were carefully collected, are being renovated and repaired at the supply depots.

In connection with this work, the Vorwarts complains that "starvation wages" are being paid to many of the employed women. Needlewomen working twelve to fourteen hours daily can only earn about thirty cents a day, says the newspaper, owing to the contract system which is employed.

COLONEL G. A. GEARHART

Colonel G. A. Gearhart, characterized by Dr. Gurneys as "a man who distinguishes and dignifies the Lyceum and Chautauqua platforms in a very unusual degree." A master of English, a great thinker, an orator of the Wendell Phillips type. More than 2,500 people of his own city, Buffalo, recently paid a dollar each to hear a lecture which he will deliver during the Chautauqua. He will appear the afternoon and night of the second day.

As a Philosopher Sees It.
It is claimed that the phosphorescent keyhole has been replaced by one with a raised rim that makes it easy for even the most unsteady hand to force the key into it. At the same time the only keyhole that will fully meet all the nocturnal conditions will be the one that gets out of its frame and goes downtown and hunts for its owner.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Washing Greasy Utensils.
It is a good plan to wipe out all greasy utensils with a piece of soft paper before washing. This simplifies the washing process. Destroy the paper immediately.

You will need no other agent to do it. They do the business.

SANE FOURTH HERE; TOWN IS VERY QUIET

Many People Leave City for Other Places of Celebration—No Injuries Recorded.

The Fourth of July holidays passed comparatively quietly in the city. Janesville celebrators journeyed in large numbers to nearby towns where activities had been planned and enjoyed the day elsewhere. Aside from a few burnt fingers no serious injury from fireworks resulted in the city as far as could be learned.

The races at the fair grounds brought many people to the city for such an event. Considering the number of nearby places where celebrations of a much larger nature had been planned, but taken all in all, more than could be offset by the number of visitors in the city.

Rockford, Harlem Park, the baseball games at the Fairbanks and Morse plant at Beloit, Madison and Milton all drew from Janesville, but no serious results have been the watchword here.

Throughout the day and evening the downtown section was a zone of quietness. Moving picture houses and the theatres attracted somewhat. Automobile parties were much in evidence from people on holiday jaunts. Many, seeking to loose themselves from the din and noise of exploding fireworks, spent the day at the nearby lakes and in the country.

Morning passenger trains were crowded to a certain extent with pleasure seekers, but the evening trains more than carried their load. This was due to the two day holiday of Sunday and yesterday, many people having left on Saturday evening to be away over Monday.

Crystal Springs park was the scene of the annual picnic of the Rock River Lodge, Brotherhood of Railroad Traders yesterday. Five hundred people spent the day in the river. The afternoon and evening was spent in dancing, while the morning was given over to sports and games. Despite the warning of Chief Klein the fire department discouraging the use of toy balloons, a large number persisted in including them in their spray of fireworks. While the only fire caused by one of these aerial displays occurred during the afternoon, Chief Klein breathed a sigh of relief with dawn today. The afternoon fire was on the roof of a barn at the rear of the Shurtliff factory on South Main street. It was caused by a balloon, but was extinguished before any great damage occurred.

Her Afternoon Naps.

Not knowing that my little niece had been showing recently a disposition to disregard her afternoon naps, I asked her, "Elizabeth, do you take a nice nap every afternoon?" A faraway look came into her eyes and her tiny chin set as she answered slowly, "Yes, I usually do, my napper has trouble with me, though."—Exchange.

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

Connie Mack says Jacques Fournier is one of the best first basemen in the game. Any player that performs so consistently at the bat as this boy must be rated as a star. Eddie Collins is the game's best second baseman. Buck Weaver could break into at least six other innings in the league. He with Ray Chapman would have a regular $100,000 infield. And the Indians would be left with a combination worth about $50,000.

Although not engaged in training for any prospective bouts, Johnny Kilbane is about the busiest boxer in Cleveland. Having accumulated a small fortune with his skillful mitts, Johnny is now engaged in placing his savings where they will not get away from him. To this end, he is engaged in investing in Cleveland real estate and is personally superintending the erection of the first of a series of two-family houses.

It seems that Fournier, the White Sox first baseman, is developing into a brilliant fielder. Praise of his work comes from every point in the west, and the Chicago scribers are satisfied that within a very short time Fournier will class with the best of the first sackers in the league. Gus Axelsson of the Chicago Herald says this of the big Frenchman: "Fournier has been a surprise from the first. Ever since Mack insisted that he was one of the best first basemen in the league he has been more closely watched than ever by the critics. Now, the last few days a Donatus or an Isbell in their palmist days could not have done any better. He has been digging them out of the dirt, stabbing them with one hand, saving wild dogs with the other, and has been clouting the ball in the bargain."

Fred (Hull) Perrine, a former American league umpire, and before that in the higher class minors, died in the California State Hospital for the Insane as the result. It is believed, of being overcome with the heat while umpiring a game in New York in 1912. His mind gradually failed and in the last few months of his life was practically a blank. He had been in the hospital at Napa more than a year.

The Elks claim to be the best people on earth. They attempted to prove it by staging baseball as the feature of their state conventions. At the New York state convention in Syracuse the Pirates and Tigers were engaged to give an exhibition, and 12,000 Elks and their friends watched the game at a dollar a throw. At the Michigan state convention in Grand Rapids the Chicago Cubs were engaged to play the Grand Rapids Central league team in an exhibition game at 10,000 Elks and other folk saw the Cubs win, 7 to 4.

Manager Miller Huggins of the St. Louis Cardinals is getting the jump on other managers in the national league in the way of looking for new material. Having no extensive farming operations, Huggins must buy or draft his material for 1916. He has sent Scout Ed Herr to the Pacific coast to look for a shortstop and an outfielder and possibly a second baseman. Herr has reported favorably on several players and it can be made. Huggins will bring them in once. It is said that if attendance does not improve on the coast that some of the clubs will sell players to recoup financial losses.

Fred Molenkamp, former well known minor league first baseman,

--And the Worst is yet to Come

who at one time seemed destined for a stay in the big show, has taken to pitching and is now performing on the ground for an independent team in Indiana.

It's all over but the old hip-hip stuff now. Even Connie Mack's willingness to string along with the White Sox to win the 1915 American league pennant. Here's what he says: "The White Sox are the best team I have seen this year. Early in the spring I picked the Red Sox to win, but I have changed my mind. I do not figure the Tigers, dangerous. Griffith hasn't a chance."

According to military standards, a soldier should be from 18 to 35 years of age, perfect in physique, and (in the United States) over 5 feet 6 in height. Where in the whole country could any set or class of men be found answering so perfectly the military requirements as the ball players? They'd be grabbed with out a moment's hesitation. The training of a ball player—his ability to run, in particular, his excellent lungs and nimble limbs—would make him the special prize of the recruiting officer. And the newest phase of trench warfare, hurling hand-grenades, would simply put a premium on the employment of ball players. Any ball player assigned to the task of throwing grenades into the hostile trenches would be worth half a dozen ordinary soldiers.

Deck That Floats.

A recent English invention is a ship with an upper deck which can be released from the hull and will float when the vessel sinks.

A Woman's Way.

So determined is a woman to "look up" to the man she loves that if she married a worm she would dig a hole in the ground and crawl into it in order to be able to put her head on his shoulder and say: "Darling, how big and strong and tall you are."

Almost the Same.

"Did you ever hear of a real goose laying a golden egg?" asked the young seeker after knowledge. "No," said his experienced papa, "but a young duck—I forget his name—once laid a ten-dollar bet with me and the money was counterfeit."
